

Development & Marketing Intern

Location: In-person at Denver Children's Advocacy Center (DCAC)

Term: Fall Semester 2026 (extension possible)

Compensation: Unpaid internship (school credit available, if applicable)

Reports to: Development Director

Time Commitment: 10-16 Hours per week

About DCAC

The Denver Children's Advocacy Center (DCAC) works to prevent abuse, strengthen families, and restore childhood. We provide trauma-informed services to children and families impacted by abuse, neglect, and violence. Our multidisciplinary team works under one roof to deliver coordinated support, healing, and justice.

Internship Overview

We're currently seeking a passionate and creative Development & Marketing Intern to join our team. This hands-on internship offers students real-world experience in nonprofit marketing and fundraising while directly supporting children and families impacted by trauma.

As a key member of our Development team, you'll help translate our work into accessible content for social media and donor outreach, manage donor communications, support fundraising events, and amplify DCAC's message across digital channels. You'll gain meaningful experience in a mission-driven, child-focused organization while contributing to positive change in your community.

Key Responsibilities

- Assist with social media content creation and scheduling
- Create branded graphics, flyers, and event materials using Canva
- Draft and edit donor communications as well as newsletters
- Support planning and execution of fundraising events, including Clays for Kids and Colorado Gives Day
- Conduct donor research to support fundraising strategy
- Support internal communications, including staff shout-outs and culture-building initiatives
- Track and maintain records of donor interactions in shared systems

- Serve as a liaison between DCAC staff and the marketing consultant by gathering and organizing internal content
-

Qualifications

- Current undergraduate or graduate student (Communications, Marketing, Nonprofit Management, or related field preferred)
 - Strong writing, editing, and verbal communication skills
 - Familiarity with Canva and social media platforms
 - Self-motivated, detail-oriented, and eager to learn
 - Passion for child advocacy, nonprofit marketing/communications, and community-driven fundraising
 - Comfortable working in person at our Denver campus
 - Willingness to learn new tools and work collaboratively in a fast-paced environment
-

What You'll Gain

- Practical experience in nonprofit marketing, development, and event management
 - The opportunity to build a strong writing and design portfolio
 - Mentorship from experienced nonprofit professionals
 - A meaningful chance to help advance child safety and healing in Denver
-

To Apply:

Please complete this form to help us learn more about you and your internship needs.